THE ROBBERY OF THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

FURTHER PARTICULARS—MANY OTHERS IMPLICATED.

Since our paper went to press yesterday, we have received a great variety of information, reliable and unreliable, concerning the robbery which we recorded yesterday. We think the following particulars concerning the matter are reliable, as they have been obtained from the best authorities.

On Thursday last, Godard Bailey, who is the law clerk of the Interior Department, and who figures most conspicuously in this matter, placed in the hands of a friend a letter, which he desired to be delivered to Secretary Thompson when he should return to the city, that gentleman being absent at the time, attending to a case in a strange manner as to cause his friend to make inquiries of him concerning its contents; learning which, his friend, whose name we refrain from publishing, delivered the letter to Secretary Thompson immediately on his return on Saturday evening last.

The bonds had been placed in the charge of Secretary Thompson as a special trust, instead of being deposited in the Indian Bureau, they not having anything to do with that Bureau. It proved to be a voluntary confession from Bailey, that at the instance of another he had abstracted (and loaned them) from the iron safe under his charge, a large amount—$870,000—of the State bonds held by Mr. T. as Secretary of the Interior, in trust for sundry Indian tribes—the proceeds of their lands sold by the Government, and so invested and held for their benefit in pursuance of treaty stipulations.

The Secretary had endeavored to induce the regular treasurer of his Department, Mr. Peter Lammond, to become their custodian, but not being obliged so to do by law or regulation, he declined the responsibility. The Secretary then intrusted them to the keeping of Bailey, the Department's law clerk, who was under bonds of ten thousand dollars for the faithful performance of other trusts. The receipt of this letter by the Secretary of course created great commotion in the Department, and he, with Bailey and other clerks, were there engaged in the investigation all Saturday night last until three, A. M., with hacks, police officers, &c., plying over the city. According to Bailey's confession, he loaned the bonds to the party who had induced him to commit the abstraction, but was not to receive a single dollar of the proceeds of the speculation. He had cut off and preserved in the safe the coupons for the next six months' interest, so that no part of that could be lost to the Government. It is generally believed that Mr. Bailey, being a desperate gambler, desired to make a large sum by speculation in the stolen bonds, (the first of which were taken as early as five months ago) by selling them at the comparatively high prices at which they sold some time since, and buying them back and replacing them in the safe when the sectional troubles they knew were about to arise should depress their prices, as at present; and that his confederate having failed to return any of them so far, B. became alarmed, and made his voluntary confession to the Secretary.

During all of Sunday, the investigation was continued, and it is said that all of Bailey's statements have so far been found to be correct. Bailey himself was summoned to appear and aid in the investigation into the affair, and he promptly obeyed the summons, being present with the Secretary at the office during most of Saturday night, and also on Sunday.

Yesterday morning, a warrant for Bailey's arrest and commitment was made out by Capt. Goddard, Chief of Police, and it was determined to place him in jail without an examination at this time, unless such was demanded by Mr. Carlele, his counsel; but, during the morning, Bailey went over to the jail, in company with Mr. Carlele, and gave himself up. He was fully committed.

As soon as Secretary Thompson received the letter, and ascertained the probable whereabouts of Bailey's alleged confederate, in New York city, William H. Russell, of the firm of Russell, Major, & Co., the great overland pony express and army transportation contractors, he telegraphed to Marshal Rynders to effect his arrest, which was accomplished yesterday morning, the marshal being aided by Detective Officers Allen and Busher, of this city.

It is positively known that Russell is not the only person implicated besides Bailey. A prominent banking firm of this city is reported to be deeply involved in the transaction. We have also a long list of names of parties implicated in our possession, which we are desired not to make public at this time, as it might tend to defeat the ends of justice.

Bailey had $3,000,000 in these bonds in his possession. It is our belief that the particular bonds will be identified. If this be the case, the Government may not lose anything by the robbery, in the end; yet those parties who have innocently purchased portions of them—and it is well known there are some—may lose their money so invested.

Bailey held as security are really any security whatever. But that fact will be settled very shortly, we apprehend, on further investigation.

Godard Bailey, who seems to be the most prominent one in this matter, is a young, married man, about thirty years of age, and is said to be a person of remarkably fine abilities and attainments. He is a native of South Carolina, but was appointed to office from the State of Alabama, being a resident of that State for some time previous to his appointment to office. At the time of his appointment, the strongest kind of testimonials as to his alleged high character and scholarly attainments were offered in his behalf; but since his appointment, his extravagance has often been noticed and commented upon by those best acquainted with him; it being well known that for a long time past his expenses have been considerably more than his salary amounted to—the latter being, we believe, $2,000 a year. It is also pretty widely known, that for some time past he has been a regular frequenter of the faro banks. His careless manner of attending to his business, of late, has also been noticed and commented upon by his fellow-clerks. It had been his custom, in times past, to carefully examine all drafts and bonds that had been signed by other parties; but, during the last two or three weeks, he has evinced the greatest carelessness in this respect, passing them by without glancing at them. His wife is a member of a very respectable Virginia family.

Officers Allen and Busher are expected to arrive here this morning, having Russell in their custody.

We hear that, when Secretary Thompson read the letter, he asked Bailey for the key of the safe. Bailey intimated that he did not know where it was. The Secretary then declared, that if it was not forthcoming, he would break it open with an axe. The key was soon brought out.

Bailey, a few weeks ago, declared that under no circumstances would he consent to hold office under Lincoln. It would seem as if such is really to be the case.

In our Congressional report will be found further proceedings connected with the case.

LATER.—It appears that Russell has been engaged in some contracts in conveying military stores to Utah, and has recently arrived here, expecting his pay. He received acceptances with which he went to New York in order to negotiate a discount; but finding he could not without great sacrifice, he returned to this city, and went to G. Bailey, representing to him that he had been instructed to come by Secretary Floyd, and effect an exchange of his acceptances for an equal amount of the coupons of State stock held in trust for the Indians.

This is the version which was rendered late last evening.

Mr. Bailey has been admitted to bail in the sum of $3,000.

THE DISTRICT IN CONGRESS.—The Senate, on Friday last, took up the bill to authorize the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to extend the Washington branch of their road to the Potomac river, and across the same, by an extension of the present structure known as the Long Bridge, for the purpose of connecting with the Virginia railroad at that point.

The bill, as offered by Mr. Kennedy, was amended in a number of particulars by Messrs. Feasenden, Cameron, Bragg, and others, which led to considerable debate, and its consideration occupied nearly the whole sitting. It ultimately passed.

The bill, as thus passed, authorizes the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to extend the Washington branch from near G street north, passing through First street east to near D street south; thence by a curve crossing N. J. avenue, South Capitol street, and the canal, to E street south, and through the last-named street to the Potomac river; and to extend the railroad across the river upon a pile structure alongside the Long Bridge, so as to connect with the Alexandria and Washington railroad now on the Virginia shore. All proper provision is to be made for draws on the bridge. The extension of the road hereby granted, and the real estate of the company connected with such extension, are to be subjected to the same taxation by the city of Washington as is levied upon other real estate of individual proprietors.

Between C street and N. J. avenue, on its west side, there shall be a tunnel for the passage of the road, along which steam or locomotive power may be used, subject to the regulation of the corporate authorities of the city of Washington. A connecting track may be laid from any part of this road to a spot on the river between the Long Bridge and the Navy Yard, for the purpose of connecting with the mail steamboats. The company may connect this track with their present depot, by cars running with horse-power, until the expiration of two years. The terms of transportation of freight on this extension shall not exceed twenty-five cents per ton, nor shall the transportation of a passenger exceed twenty-five cents. The company shall be responsible for any damages they may commit to the United States, to the corporation of Washington, or to individuals, as the case may be, and the powers and privileges granted by this act are to be limited, modified, or restrained, by Congress. The company is also obliged, if it accepts this bill, to check baggage over all their roads to Washington and Alexandria. The bill also empowers the Washington and Alexandria Railroad Company to construct a railroad for local uses from the Long Bridge, by Maryland avenue and Seventh street west, to the south bank of the canal, or else from the Long Bridge, along the Potomac shore, to the south side of the city canal, and thence east as far as Sixth street west, the said company to pay the Baltimore company fair rates for the transportation of passengers and merchandise across the bridge.

The bill has yet to pass the House.

METROPOLITAN POLICE BILL.—The Hon. David Kilgore, of Indiana, yesterday introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to provide for a metropolitan police for the city of Washington; which was referred to the Committee for the District.

CHRISTMAS DAY.—The day which the young folks—and the old folks too—have longed for, has arrived. Christmas, with all its joys, is upon us.

A NEW INSTITUTION.—Visitors to New York have not failed to notice the itinerant boot-blacks, who, on Broadway, solicit customers, when gentlemen are not voluntary candidates for the polishing of their understandings! On the thoroughfares, and at the steps of the hotels, those busy fellows ply their business; and, as many three-cent pieces and half dimes crown their labors, it is not surprising there should be active competition in this means of obtaining a living, which is considered among the new-boys to be less respectable than their own.

The bootblack on the par is a white boy—an industrious manikin—who is provided with a stool, on which the boots are alternately planted for the polishing process—an operation which is soon performed, in true professional style.

In the city of New York, the street bootblack is an "institution"—a convenience to strangers in that great commercial metropolis, and he is one of "the sights," though humble, "thereunto belonging."

Recently, the city of Washington has been visited by this branch of industrials; and we have no doubt here, as in New York, they find plenty of customers. If your boots are muddy, it is a nice thing to hail the bootblack, "present," not "arms," but your foot, to his manipulations. As after a clean shave, so you have some satisfaction in a clean boot; and especially in these times, when mud attaches to the leather without extra persuasion! However, if the boots will not stay cleaned, so much the better for the polisher, for he is always ready to repeat the operation of his profession.

Now, we commend honest industry, and are therefore glad that these itinerants are encouraged. Humble as is the occupation, and insignificant as it may appear to others, it is not to be despised by those who wear boots, and who cannot stoop to the brushing process.

The business is an "institution." These workers, from a city where the business is overdone, or where there is too much competition, were right in their reckoning, before they came hither, that gentlemen in Washington wear boots, and that the mud is favorable to the trade!

The "Pop-corn man" is "not a circumstance" to these white boot-blacks!

RUMOR OF ANOTHER EXTENSIVE ROBBERY.—Yesterday morning, the city was considerably exercised by a rumor that an extensive defalcation had been made known in the Treasury Department, and that the amount missing was somewhere in the neighborhood of $80,000. This rumor was caused, so far as we can learn, by another, that the amount of the Interior Department robbery was $80,000 more than at first reported. We have heard of many other rumors in relation to other Departments, but believe them all to be entirely unfounded.

A HOTEL KEEPER SWINDLED.—Yesterday morning, a young man who gave his name as Samuel R. Kelly was arrested by Officer Watson and taken before Justice Lonn, the complaint, being that the prisoner, together with another person, had taken board at the Exchange Hotel, C street, near Sixth, at $14 per week. At the end of the week the bill was presented. It was not paid; but Kelly and his friend left the house. Their trunks were searched, but they were empty. The excuse Kelly gave for taking his things was, that he could not do without a clean shirt. The magistrate had to dismiss the party, no criminal offense being charged. The landlord said he thought boarding-houses and hotels ought to be protected against such imposition, and so did the magistrate.

ROCK CREEK BRIDGE.—The aqueduct bridge over Rock creek, at the extension of Pennsylvania avenue west, is so nearly finished that it has been opened for foot passengers between Washington and Georgetown. Besides being a pleasing object in itself, the bridge affords a pleasant prospect, both northward and southward.

GEORGETOWN COUNCILS.—In the Georgetown Council, on Friday last, a resolution was offered by Mr. Tenney, authorizing application to be made to Congress for permission to make a subscription of $200,000 to the Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad. It was read once, and laid over under the rule.

PERSONAL.—R. S. Pardon Messenger, from Mississippi, is at Kirkwood's.

Hon. Z. Kidwell, ex-member of Congress, is at the National.

ACCIDENT.—An axle of one of the freight cars of the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, when near Max Meadows, on Friday, broke, and the conductor of the train, Mr. Koffman, was thrown from the platform of the car, and had his arm broken. The train was thrown from the track, but no one else was injured, though the cars were injured.—Alex. Gazette.

IMPORTANT SUIT.—Mrs. Gaines's great suit is set down for trial in January, in the Supreme Court, No. 66 on the calendar. It involves about two-thirds of the city of New Orleans. All parties have arrived, and are preparing for the case.

THAT LAMP-POST AGAIN.—We are constantly in receipt of communications in relation to the state of the lamp post at the corner of Fourth and D streets, and as to the proper course the authorities will take in relation to the matter. In response thereto, we would state that the lamp-post is still down, and that the different parts thereof have succeeded further than ever from each other; so much so, that it is feared coercion will be of no avail in the matter. We would still call the attention of the proper authorities, &c., as usual.

A NEW FLAG.—A large flag, recently ordered from New York by the National Republican Association of this city, was yesterday waving from the top of the Wigwam.

NORTHERN LIBERTIES MARKET.—There was a very large attendance at this market yesterday morning, and the greatest abundance of good things there for sale. The prices were pretty much the same as given in our schedule of yesterday.

CENTRAL GUARDHOUSE.—Justice Clark has disposed of some twenty cases of drunkenness, profanity, and other misdemeanors, since Saturday evening.

CRIMINAL COURT.—At the opening of the court, yesterday, the verdict of the jury in the case of William Johnson, charged with stealing, was read by the clerk. It found him guilty of stealing the poultry, eggs, and other articles, but not guilty as to the horse and wagon. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. James Welsh was placed on trial for an assault and battery on Thomas Welsh. He was found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of fifty cents.

Peter Brook was convicted of an assault and battery on Richard Thomas, and sentenced to jail for one week.

POLICE MATTERS.—Before Justice Barnard, William Garner, charged with stealing a watch, had a further hearing, when he was honorably discharged.

Thomas Cropley was fully committed to answer the charge of chicken stealing.

Before Justice Donn.—A negro man, driving a furniture wagon, was arrested by Officer Ross, for stealing a wagon saddle from J. F. Bailey,

Jan. It was so altered as to be hardly identifiable, but it was recognized by the owner. The man stated that he had bought it of a white boy for seven-fifty cents, although it is worth five dollars. He gave bail to appear at Officer Arnold's for drunkenness, and sent to the workhouse for thirty days. This boy is but fourteen years of age, and was lately acquitted on a charge of burglary, on account of his tender age.

"REASONS WHY."—The series of books with the above title, embracing the "Reasons Why" of general science, "Reasons Why" of natural history, and the "Biblical Reasons Why," for biblical students, and a guide to family Scripture readings, are to be only had at G. G. Evans's Gift Bookstore, 476 Pennsylvania avenue, as also a thousand and more different works.

The "Reason Why" purchasers go to Evans's, in preference to other establishments, is, that each book is sold at the usual retail price; besides, with every sale, a handsome gift is presented to the buyer, in many cases exceeding in value ten times the amount expended.

These are very cogent "Reasons Why" the Gift Bookstore should be patronized; for the liberal spirit of the proprietor is a sure guaranty that every patron will be fairly dealt with. See advertisement in another column.
